Comment: Sometimes they will list all the traditions, other times not. There are times when the gathering is based on a season, or a holiday or cultural celebration, and you can mention that the Dances of Universal Peace community welcome the public to join them for (whatever holiday).

Putting details in the press release means that people don't call the info contact to ask things like what should they wear, do they need a partner, do they need to pre-register. Also, check with newspapers to see if they will include web addresses (sometimes they won't put in someone's email address.) It is very important to say "Dances of Universal Peace" in the title or in the text. This is a unifying factor in what we are involved in.
